

Student Success Funding Opportunity: Summer 2017 Deep Data Dive Project

Academic Department Chairs, Program Coordinators, and/or faculty who are highly engaged with student success efforts for their department as reflected in their departmental student success plans are eligible to apply for a $500 summer stipend to participate on a project team who will dive deep into the data to inform departmental efforts for 2017-18. Descriptive and inferential analyses are envisioned in collaboration with the Office of Student Success and Institutional Research.

Letters of interest should be sent via email to Joshua Powers (jopowers@indstate.edu) by May 26. Letters should discuss applicant's interest in the Deep Date Dive Project, his/her involvement with student success initiatives in the department, and specific outcomes of interest that descriptive and inferential data can inform.

The team will meet twice per month in June and July, and again in early August, as informed by vacation schedules. Participants will also engage in individualized work and consultation. 7-10 applicants are envisioned to be selected to participate on the team, ideally with each college represented. Preference will be for persons who attended the Departmental Success Plan Summit on May 23.

As an outcome of the project, participants are expected to present results at an early Fall department and/or college wide meeting and are envisioned to do a presentation at the Fall Student Success Conference on October 3-4. The work is also intended to inform the update to the department's student success plan this fall.
