

Indiana State University's national online presentation series on the career development and advancement of aspiring and current faculty from diverse backgrounds.

Written/Unwritten: Diversity and the Hidden Truths of Tenure

Dr. Patricia A. Matthew

Associate Professor of English
Montclair State University

Link to presentation recording

Link to Dr. Matthew's Powerpoint presentation

February 21, 2016; 3-4pm EST

Bio on Dr. Matthew:

Dr. Matthew is Associate Professor of English at Montclair State University where she specializes in the history of the novel during the Romantic period (1790-1830). She also writes about race and diversity in higher education, particularly with respect to the implications of the diversity discourse in the lived experiences of faculty of color. Since the publication of Written/Unwritten, she published an article in the Atlantic entitled, What is Faculty Diversity worth to the University? She has published essays and books reviews on diversity in higher education in PMLA, The ADE Bulletin, Signs: Journal of Women in Culture and Society, and The New Inquiry. Written/Unwritten has been featured in The Chronicle of Higher Education and Inside Higher Ed. Dr. Matthew has her doctorate from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Indiana State University believes that students are our most valuable asset and that a diverse faculty is essential to their support and educational experience. Furthermore, we define our excellence not on who we exclude, the traditional higher education paradigm, but rather by whom we include and the kinds of educational experiences provided. If you would like to know more about our values and commitments, as well as employment possibilities either now or in the future, please contact Dr. Joshua Powers, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs (jopowers@indstate.edu; 812-237-8378). Current posted positions can be found on our HR website: <https://jobs.indstate.edu/>.

